CHOCOLATE BUTTERCRUNCH PIE

The crust makes this pie unique, with its crunchy texture from toasted nuts and chocolate bits.

Crust:

- 2/3 cup all purpose flour
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, cut, cut into pieces
- 1/2 cup (chopped walnuts)
- 1/2 (1.55-ozs) milk chocolate candy bar, finely chopped

Filling:

- 1 (3.9-ounce) pack of pie filling
- 1 (3.4-ounce) pack of pie filling
- 1 (1.4-ounce) can of milk
- 1 (1.8-ounce) can of condensed milk
- 1/2 cup butter, melt
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup walnuts

Topping:

- 1 cup walnuts
- 1/2 cup (1.55-ounce) chocolate

Preparation:

Preheat oven to 350°F. Place the walnuts in a nutting pan, and bake for 4-5 minutes until golden brown; cool to lukewarm. Combine the flour, sugar and salt in a food processor. Add the butter, cut in, using the off button, until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add the nuts and chocolate. Blend, using the off button, until nuts are fairly chopped. Press into bottom and up sides of a lightly greased 9-inch pie pan. Bake until golden brown, about 20 minutes. Cool.

Woodland Park Medical Center

How You Can Help?

Clic & Pic
www.helpfightcancer.org

The Pink Ribbon Challenge is an annual NBCF event that happens every October, Breast Cancer Awareness Month. It combines the efforts of radio stations and syndicated programs nationwide, the support of listeners, to raise funds to provide free mammograms for underserved women.

Unlike any other fundraising effort, listeners participate by visiting their favorite radio station's web site each day during October and clicking on the Pink Ribbon banner. That sends them to The Breast Cancer Site where another click on the "Fund Free Mammograms" button translates into monetary contributions from corporate sponsors.

The money raised is distributed by the National Breast Cancer Foundation to hospitals, clinics, missions and mobile mammography units coast to coast.

It's Only Sunny Side Up for Sunnye

by Cheryl Linnick
Photography: Bill Thompson

"Sometimes I even admire myself for getting in the face of adversity and screaming "get out of my way... I have work to do" —

Sunnys Gail Bates

The Jeweled Room
9 N. Main St. • Fort. Scott KS, 66701
www.analteredego.com.

Resilience is the ability to process adversity and rise above it or to rebound.

Very few people are dealt the hand Sunnye Gail Bates was given in extreme life threatening health situations in youth; moreover, very few could have handled it the way Sunnye has — she continues to maintain creative energy and achieve success as an entrepreneur.

Sunnys tells of the launch of her business after a severe health event and an auto accident this way: "I am a self-taught graphic designer. I design and solder all of the jewelry in my store. I also design and print T-shirts. I screen print and digitally print the shirts depending on what the customers need and the design. I started digitally printing shirts in September 2010 and by April 2011 I had enough business coming in that I had to purchase another digital printer." My creative mind then led me to prisons, bars, and dogs, fish tanks and much more!

"Even with a broken back and wrist and a left foot in a walking boot for 3 months, I've never given up. I've continued to work, to design, and to be thankful for the creativity that I've been blessed with. My mother has always told me, "believe and succeed" and without this upbringing I would have thrown in the towel a long time ago."

Sunnys sees her life and experiences as progression. This is evident in her products for her business; and it points to her determination for the future progression. As her store she says she loves "incorporating vintage into my products."

When asked about her inspiration and creative influences, this is what she maintained helped her: "My family and friends are my greatest inspiration," and she's listed three people to help with the expansion.

Sunnys has a fervent devotion to her loved ones, her passion for her work, and life — it shows itself in her beautiful unique creations. She has survived breast cancer twice already, and right in the middle of her first illness she became engaged to her best friend and love, Randall Hunt, whom she married last November in Missouri. The wedding photo seems to radiate sheer joy, but the initial joy was to be short lived. He came home only to be involved in an auto accident three weeks later, suffering extensive injuries. Rebounding even in the agony of pain from these injuries, Sunnye is presently expanding her business and finding joy in this creative process. Her business is being launched in boutiques across the country along with her Web site.

Even moving forward, she said, "I have now hired a sales representative who is launching a nationwide campaign to market my products. We have named the line "An Altered Egg"."

She says she maintains her positive attitude by keeping in mind the lessons her father taught her: "My dad always taught me that nothing is worth having if you haven't worked for it," and I don't think you'll find too many people who will work up that I haven't lived my life by those words.

"I love my job and the work that I do. I look forward to the growth that we are about to discover — it's truly a dream come true!"

Anna Ring's Country Lane Collections

Design and photos by Steven Berkman

Anna Ring of Mendon, Missouri, has found her niche. She tried other careers and came back to college to be a teacher. But along the way, she began painting crafts and other wooden items like handbags and so. Their business really took off when they became affiliated with the Tish Miller Gallery, through which their items were shipped all over the world.

At one time, Anna went to the mall and, to her surprise, found a stack of orders about two inches high. "We almost worked ourselves to death that time because our home for Christmas and other things that had to be done in a certain time. We bought better kinds of goods, we had to carry orders. It took all of the family working night and day and every year has to get all of those orders finished. We don't do wholesale anymore, except a place in New Hampshire that we still do about Christmas time. We don't want to work that hard if you've got to call me sometimes."

The Ring's still raising goods, some, but they focus more on people and the time. "We have to plan for growth a year ahead," Anna explains. "The growth has to happen for about a year before they are ready to carry and plan."

Anna has lived at the site all of her life, having been born on a farm about seven miles east of where they now live. She and her husband have married for almost forty years. The gift shop is an extension of her career for her community.

On July 4, 1993, the Ring's built a large building for their wood shop. They took the wood building near the house and built wood. They now, when they started, she wanted to open a gift shop in the house. This year is her thirtieth year in business.

"It's a lot of work, but I love it," Anna said at the present as the hand-crafted items around her shop. Midwest Products, once again, is holiday shopping for her holiday. Great Opening, she was told Oct. 27.

Midwest Products is truly a labor of love for the Ring family. The Ring's are not only the owners of the wood shop, along with help now and then from their mother-in-law. Their daughter, Sherry Talbot, joins all of the painting and preservation jobs and books and other items. She carries the goods and items down all of the goods painting in their area though she has had no professional training, she has a professional quality talent. Anna also makes all of the items, ornaments and other crafts in the shop.

Sherry also has a contract with Tish Miller Gallery. It's a holiday for her design. They buy her designs and put them on fabric and canvas. A home by company also took some of her designs, some of which are available in the shop. Sherry was to do a sign, but not for her. She took a few, she chose her style or items more so nothing, but when she had finished her job, she had designs are professional and unique.

"At their holiday time, they're not out, it's people standing over the last day, not, it's just about and it's really, but we don't let. We look forward to each year."

In the shop on handmade crafts and gifts - there are signs, door hangers, wreaths, pictures, primitive items, gourd art, primitive snowmen, garlands, primitive benches, ornaments, tables, pillows, Santa and old treasures.

The shop is open just now, but customers should call (417) 882-2112 before going. It is located one mile south of Mendon School on First Street, Mendon, Missouri.

Winter Greetings

HOST A HOLLY JOLLY PARTY

When it comes to celebrations, there's no season quite like the holiday season.

The additional recipe from "Holly Jolly Party" has and includes recipes to help create a balanced cocktail buffet complete with all the ingredients.

"I know life is hectic this time of year and what, but it's really fun," says Nancy Bell, the author of "Holly Jolly Party." "We've included all the drinks to make it easy, simple and delicious."

She suggests making a beverage menu as guests can serve themselves, or make a list of beverages and allow the guests to make their own. "I suggest Cherry Cranberry Mojito and a cocktail of Apple Mojito and a cocktail with cranberry juice. And for a more festive theme, white wine, which has a festive theme, will have some, peppermint, which is a classic, and a cocktail with cranberry juice."

"When it comes to the food, a mix of heavy and light is best," she says. "I've done Mini Meatloaves, Mini and Mini Turkey Sandwiches, Mini Donuts, which are easy to make, a stack of meat, which has the eye and the palate. For another unexpected twist on holiday, each recipe can be made in a glass or bowl."

And for the sweets, beautifully decorated chocolate, ginger, vanilla, honey, and so on. Displayed on a wooden tray, these treats will be a hit. For another unexpected twist on holiday, each recipe can be made in a glass or bowl.

For more holiday recipes and inspiration, visit www.countryliving.com.
